Summary of bans on/stopping of Dublin returns to Hungary — as of 14 December 2016.

Member State	Court, case no., date	Summary	Policy developments
Austria	Federal Administrative Court, W125 2136124-1 , 16.11.2016	The judge held that it cannot be argued that Hungary on a general basis denies taking back asylum seekers under the Dublin III Regulation; but he lifted the administrative decision and held Austria responsible under Article 17 of Dublin III Regulation as the Hungarian authorities - after several ambiguous statements - finally rejected to take back the applicant. The judge also emphasized that Austria would have been obliged to conduct further assessment with the Hungarian authorities in light of the applicant's poor health and the notorious fact that vulnerable asylum-seekers are not properly identified in Hungary, but nevertheless face a real risk of being detained.	Until summer 2016 court decisions on Dublin transfers to Hungary had referred all cases back to the first instance because of the lack of sufficient information on the situation of returnees in Hungary. The asylum

	Federal Administrative Court, 8 September 2015, Ra 2015/18/0113	The applicants were particularly vulnerable given the special needs of the minor children, and the illness of their mother. The legal presumption that a Member State is safe was rebutted given the notoriously changed situation in Hungary in conjunction with the substantiated criticism put forward by the applicants.
Belgium	Council of Alien Law Litigation (CALL), 171 730 , 12 July 2016 Similar findings from CALL 168 142 24 May 2016; 168 146 24 May 2016	Application by Hungary of STC with regards to Serbia violates the principle of non-refoulement . No examination made by the asylum authorities on the effectiveness of judicial review in Hungary.	No official suspension on transfers.
	Council of Alien Law Litigation, decision no. 166 725 and decision no. 166 721, 28 April 2016	The administrative authority did not examine the situation in Hungary with sufficient scrutiny.
Czech Republic	Supreme Administrative Court, 5 Azs 195/2016, 12 September 2016	The conclusion that there are systemic deficiencies of the Hungarian asylum system revolves around two main arguments: - blanket application of the safe third-country concept with regards to Serbia in contradiction to UNHCR recommendation and reported cases of chain refoulement in the Balkans - lack of effective remedy before Hungarian courts following accelerated admissibility procedures Taking into consideration the individual circumstances and nationality of the complainant (Nigerian), the SAC reiterated that the two aspects lead to conclusion that there are reasonable grounds to believe that he may face chain-refoulement and inhuman and degrading treatment should he be transferred back to Hungary.	Transfers are generally suspended.
Denmark	Danish Refugee Appeals Board, October 2015	The appeal instance for Dublin cases, decided to suspend all Dublin-transfers to Hungary, because the Refugee Appeals Board wanted to investigate the situation for asylum seekers in Hungary. In June 2016, the Danish Refugee Appeals Board decided that all cases concerning Dublin-transfers to Hungary should be referred back to the Danish Immigration Service, the first instance for assessing Dublin/asylum cases in Denmark. In the decision, the Appeals Board	Until recently transfers were generally suspended. Beginning of December the Immigration Service decided to process most

However, in about 20 cases they have made a new decision of transfer to Hungary.
Finland	Supreme Administrative Court, KHO: 2016: 53 of 20 April 2016	There are systemic flaws in the asylum procedure and reception conditions for asylum applicants in Hungary within the meaning of Article 3(2) of the Dublin III Regulation. Although the appellant in the case is an adult healthy male, he would still be at risk of removal to Serbia and onward refoulement to his country of origin without his asylum claim being substantively considered in any jurisdiction. Although he could apply for suspension of removal in Hungary, including possible recourse to the ECtHR, the effectiveness of such a remedy was uncertain due to the numbers of applications the Hungarian authorities had to deal with as well as problems with legal advice and interpretation services for asylum seekers.	This ruling sets a precedent and therefore must be followed by lower courts in Finland.
France	Paris Administrative Tribunal, No. 1618339, 22 October 2016	The Tribunal refers to the infringement proceedings initiated by the Commission as well as the Commissioner for Human Rights of the Council of Europe's visit to Hungary and the subsequent communication issued on the 13 January 2016. The Tribunal relies on the findings of these documents in its conclusions that no new elements can be presented by applicants on appeal in Hungary, that there is no suspensive effect of appeals, that the right of applicants to interpretation and translation is not enforced, that the new legislation on judicial control is likely to infringe the right to an effective remedy and access to an impartial tribunal and that asylum applicants are consistently held in a restrictive detention regime without access to an effective appeal against detention. The Tribunal subsequently orders the suspension of the Prefecture's decision and remits it to the Prefect for re-examination.	No general suspension of transfers. Pending case at ECtHR, where Rule 39 was granted: A.S. and G.S. v. France, Application no. 4409/16.

	Administrative Tribunal Versailles, 24 March 2016, N01602127	The decision makes reference to infringement procedure instigated by the Commission - impossibility to present new facts in appeal, lack of suspensive effect, forcing asylum seekers to leave the territory, criminal law on irregular entry does not respect information and interpretation requirements - there are systemic deficiencies in Hungary.
Germany	Niedersachsen Administrative Court, 15.11.2016 - 8 LB 92/15	The Court found that access to the asylum procedure in Hungary, its design and the reception conditions during the asylum procedure have systemic deficiencies which is still the case in November 2016. This is applicable for Dublin returnees and thus there is a real risk of inhuman or degrading treatment within the meaning of Article 4 of the Charter or Article 3 of ECHR.	Despite the court finding of systemic deficiencies, Dublin transfers continue and some courts ruled in favour of Dublin transfers to Hungary.

Even though the Hungarian law is in accordance with Article 8 of the recast Reception Conditions Directive (2013/33/EU), several reports revealed the failure of Hungary to adhere to this law in practice . The applicant would therefore face a real risk of being subjected to inhuman or degrading treatment in Hungary.

This led to a real risk of inhuman and degrading treatment if asylum seekers were returned there. Italy	Council of State, 4004/2016 , 27, September, 2016	The Council of State examined the recent legislative and policy developments in Hungary, leading to an increase in the use of detention , as well as risks of refoulement to third countries . On the basis of deficiencies in the asylum procedure and reception conditions , the Court found that the transfer of the asylum seeker to Hungary would violate Article 4 of the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights.	Transfers are generally suspended.

the Netherlands	Council of State, 201507248/1 and 201507322/1/V3, 26 November 2015	The documents submitted by the applicant give rise to reasonable doubts particularly as regards the reception capacity, living conditions and the procedure in Hungary. The State Secretary in response to the submitted documents by the applicant did not supply sufficient information, in writing or at the hearing, on the situation of Dublin returnees in Hungary. In view of the above, the State Secretary, given his duty to investigate, could not hold without any further investigation into the position of Dublin returnees, that the transfer of the applicant would not violate Article 3 of ECHR.	Transfers are generally suspended.
